

FARLEY MAY BE CHOSEN CARDINAL

Indications That He Will Receive Red Hat.

SIGNIFICANT HONOR GIVEN

Says Mass for Prince Massimo and Is Courteously Treated by Pope and Clergy.

ROME, March 18.—Prince Massimo requested Archbishop Farley before his departure to say mass in the private chapel of the prince's palace, where, according to tradition, St. Philip raised from the dead a member of the Massimo family. After the function Prince Massimo said significantly: "All the archbishops who have said mass here have become cardinals."

The phrase was much commented upon, as the prince, the day before, was received in private audience by the Pope, and it was known that he had spoken about Archbishop Farley.

Accompanied to Station.

When Archbishop Farley started for Naples he was accompanied to the railroad station by Monsignor Kennedy, rector of the American College in Rome.

Traveling with the archbishop are E. V. Farley, his nephew; the Rev. P. J. Hayes, chancellor of the archdiocese; the Rev. J. V. Lewis, the archbishop's secretary; and Prof. Mackin, of New York.

The party will sail today. Archbishop Farley said he had been touched and delighted by the kind way he had been treated during his four weeks' stay here by all, from his Holiness to the lowest prelate.

PUSHED "JIM CROW" BILLS

Delegate Kerbin Forced to Go From Snow Hill to Baltimore for Meals, 'Tis Said.

SNOW HILL, Md., March 18.—Delegate William G. Kerbin, of Worcester county, who has been strenuously pushing the "Jim Crow" bill in the State Legislature, has been boycotted by negroes.

Kerbin boards at a hotel here, and Monday morning when he sat down to breakfast he was informed that the negro cook had refused to prepare another meal for him. Hungry and angry, he traveled to Baltimore before obtaining food. His washerwoman, too, has refused longer to do his weekly wash.

ANAPOLIS, March 18.—Governor Warfield last night signed the "Jim Crow" car bill, which applies to railroads and steamboats in the State. The law does not affect the street or steam railways in Baltimore.
